Dato: 2019-04-03 Version nr.:4

Aktivitetens navn: Continued RDM eLearning modules - FAIR for research disciplines

Aktivitetens start-slut	April 2019 – December 2019
Aktivitetsleder	DTU      Katrine Flindt Holmstrand
Konsortium	Agreed: DTU, RA, CBS, SDUB, AAU, AUL, KB-KU (0,5), KU adm (0,5)
Aktivitetens scope	Objective: To produce 2 (or more) eLearning modules concerning how to make data FAIR within a research discipline The modules should be a clear continuation of the 2018 RDM eLearning activity – specifically the FAIR Principle module, but can be used independently. The new modules will be an in depth training in the FAIR principles applied to a research discipline with test or exercises in datatypes – e.g. Engineering: Science/Tech Data,   Social Science/Humanities: Observational data   Health: Health data/personal data/registry data The modules will be built upon the design of the 2018 RDM Course and content will draw on knowledge and experience gained from the FAIR across 2018 activity and are thus a continuation of that activity combined with the RDM eLearning 2018 activity. Members who join the activity will be part of the project group. Researchers will be content providers, with no financial support. The modules are intended for the teaching of PhD students, but could also be used by researchers and research support staff. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The modules will be made available and communicated through the landing page of DeiC together with the original RDM modules. (vidensportal.deic.dk/RDMElearn). The modules can be downloaded and incorporated in the institutions' own LMS and course catalogues.</li> <li>• The modules will be developed as one template to be filled in with content from the research disciplines</li> <li>• Each member of the consortium (institution) will be responsible for the development of content within their chosen discipline/datatype.</li> <li>• The project group will deliver: one dynamic template – for course and exercises, test and supplementary material. A complete structure and a production plan.</li> <li>• Project management and agreement from a professional eLearning company for development and full production of the module(s).</li> <li>• The modules' duration will be approximately 20 – 30 minutes.</li> <li>• Templates and the full project package (project and production plans, communication and promotion material etc.) will be delivered by the end of 2019.</li> </ul>
Must-have leverancer	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Workshop to structure content and agree on disciplines and datatypes.</li> <li>• A detailed agreement with a production company.</li> <li>• A fully developed production plan.</li> <li>• A project plan to be applied to the modules.</li> <li>• A fully developed template for a 20-30 min e-learning in FAIR within research disciplines.</li> <li>• Complete structure on vidensportal.deic.dk/RDMElearn</li> <li>• 1 final module</li> <li>• At least 2 modules in progress of developing content.</li> </ul>
Nice-to-have leverancer	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• 3 modules complete and promoted.</li> <li>• A workshop/Train-the-Trainer/masterclass in RDM teaching- how-to and eLearning sustainability</li> <li>• A workshop/Train-the-Trainer/masterclass in in-depth-FAIR – presentations by Andre Dekker and/or Mark Wilkinson(first author of the 2016 paper introducing FAIR) and/or Luiz Bonino.</li> </ul>
Økonomi	Development of 1 eLearning template to be used for up to 35 modules: approx. 210.000 dkk. 1 PM, responsible for the overall coordination of the project 100% financed 120.000 dkk (200 hours) Up to 10 discipline coordinators (project group), each responsible for the coordination of one module 60% financed 360.000 dkk (9 x 1 pm + 2 X 0,5 pm)
